Livin' North of 7 is a "Hell-us" Style Beer

Helles is a noun used in the sense of "a light one."

This designation refers to color only, not to the beer's caloric or alcoholic strength, which is a substantial 5.0 %ABV.

Livin' North of 7 rewards the drinker with the most sublime balance of subtle, rich, elegant maltiness and lingering, noble hoppiness.

Less hop flavor and bitterness than Pilsner.

The main highlight of Livin' North of 7 is its bready, malty character. It's malty, balanced; easy-drinking character has earned it the reputation of the "session beer" one which can be consumed at any occasion.

Livin' North of 7 is a beer for those with the outdoors spirit in mind.

This beer pairs perfectly with those people best described as: sociability, geniality, joviality, good nature, comfort, coziness, snugness, relaxed mood — the sort of beer drinkers that settle in over the pursuit of an unhurried good time together, over a Livin' North of 7 or two, of course.
